The present instrument is based on one by Walker, installed in 1841 on a gallery at the west end of the nave. In 1886 it was re-built and enlarged by Brindley and Foster of Sheffield and was moved to its present position in a specially built organ chamber. In 1981 Cousins of Lincoln electrified the action, added the detached console and made further tonal changes.

The church is open every Thursday at 10.30am for a service of Holy Communion. These recitals are held on the third Thursday of each month from April to October and commence at 1.00pm, lasting about 40 minutes. Light refreshments are served on these days from 12.15pm.

Admission is free to all of these recitals, but a retiring collection is requested, the profit from which goes into the fund for the maintenance of this fine instrument.
